Course Description
The objective of this course is to acquaint the student with fundamental terms, concepts, theories, and modalities in juvenile delinquency. The orientation of this course is towards a comprehensive understanding of the causes and treatment of juvenile delinquency. Attention will be given to both conventional and non-conventional theoretical perspectives and solutions to the juvenile crime problem. Topics to be covered include: the nature of delinquency, theories in delinquency, female delinquency, juvenile justice system operation, gang behavior, constitutional law, and institutional care.

The format of the class is based on an “online” learning style format. Course content includes assigned readings in the text supplemented by online discussions and assignments. Various online learning modules are available to assist the student in mastering the material.

Academic Honesty

Unfortunately, academic dishonesty has become a serious problem on many campuses. The purpose for including the following statement is to prevent any misunderstanding about what constitutes academic dishonesty and what consequences will result if it is detected.

Academic honesty is expected. An act of academic dishonesty will result in a failing course grade of “E” and may result in a recommendation of additional disciplinary action. (The University of Utah Student Code provides for these sanctions and provides appeal rights.)

1. Cheating (as defined is Article XI of the Student Code) generally includes the giving or receiving of any unauthorized assistance on any academic work.

2. Plagiarism, as defined in Article XI of the Student Code, is “the appropriation of any other person’s work and the unacknowledged incorporation of that work in one’s own work offered for credit.”

3. Falsification. Any untrue statement, either oral or written, concerning one’s own academic work or the academic work of another student, or the unauthorized alteration of any academic record.

4. Original work. Unless specifically authorized by the instructor, all academic work undertaken in this course must be original. Work that has been submitted in a prior or existing course may not be submitted in a course being taken concurrently.
